BOAT RENTALS

Houseboats, Sailboats and Yachts

This booklet lists a variety of houseboats, sailboats and yachts with on board accommodation available for vacations on Ontario's waterways.

Most boats are equipped with refrigerator, stove, heater, head, water tank and safety equipment. Some will also provide cutlery, crockery and bedding. You will be expected to pay for fuel, ice and overnight dockages.

Usually no previous boating experience is required for houseboat rentals. Handling and docking instructions will be provided before your departure. Be sure to ask about insurance. A security deposit is normally required against any damage exceeding normal wear. The rates quoted in this guide were deemed correct at time of printing in January 1992. They may be subject to change, consequently verification with the operator is necessary.

In addition, we publish lists of canoe outfitters and cruise boats.

METRIC CONVERSION

Boat lengths in this guide are indicated in feet. Sample metric equivalents are as follows:

18'	5.4m	44'	13.4m
26'	7.9m	50'	15.2m
30'	9.1m	55'	16.7m
36'	10.9m	60'	18.2m
40'	12.1m	65'	19.8m

ONTARIO'S MAJOR WATERWAYS

Ontario's major waterways include the Rideau, Trent-Severn, St. Lawrence Seaway, Great Lakes, Georgian Bay and Lake of the Woods.

Navigational (small craft) charts and small craft guides of these waterways are available for a fee from the Canadian Hydrographic service office. For a free copy of the Great Lakes Publication Catalogue call or write to:

Canadian Hydrographic Service
P.O. Box 8080
1675 Russell Road
Ottawa, Ontario K1G 3H6
(613) 998-4931

In addition, charts can be purchased from many chart distributors listed in the yellow pages of the telephone book.

Rideau Canal

Construction of the historic Rideau Canal, which connects Ottawa and Kingston, was started in 1826 to provide a safe interior transport route from Montreal to Kingston in the event of another war between Britain and the United States. By the time the monumental task was completed for the summer of 1832, its original purpose was largely obsolete.

Today this 202 km (125 mi.) chain of beautiful lakes, rivers and canal cuts is maintained and operated for recreational boating and the preservation of a 19th century operating canal. It features 47 locks, all but three manually operated in a historic setting at 24 lockstations. Most lockstations feature picnic tables, washrooms, walking paths, drinking water, boater camping, dockage, and are accessible by land or water. A fee is charged for mooring, camping or locking through the canal.

From May to October, interpretive programs are provided at various lock stations along the route. These include historically restored and furnished buildings, demonstrations, exhibits, special events and slide and film presentations. The publication Rideau Reflections is available at lockstations and contains a guide to interpretive programs and articles of interest on the Rideau corridor.

Other free publications include Locking Through Safely, Fees & Hours of Operation and Navigation Data, while navigation (small craft) charts and the Small Craft Guide are available for a fee at some lockstations. For further information please write or call:

St. Lawrence Seaway

Long before the coming of the highway engineer, Ontario's native peoples and, later, our early settlers, traders and trappers depended upon water for transportation and commerce. The powerful St. Lawrence is a picturesque part of this fascinating heritage.

For safety reasons, crafts of less than 6 m (20 feet) in length or 1,000 kg (1 ton) in weight are not permitted in the seaway locks. For further information on boating on the St. Lawrence Seaway, you should obtain the Pleasure Craft Guide and, if your vessel is 20 m (65 feet) in length or more, the Seaway Handbook. Please state length of vessel when placing your order. Both books are available free of charge from:

Georgian Bay

Georgian Bay is a spectacularly beautiful resort area. It has its very own national park, Georgian Bay Islands National Park, comprising rugged, peaceful islands. A map and detailed information on the park are available from:

Superintendent
Georgian Bay Islands National Park
Box 28
Honey Harbour, Ontario P0E 1E0
(705) 756-2415

This is mainly big-boat water, but if you come with a trailered boat, try the stretch from Port Severn to Parry Sound, through the Thirty Thousand Islands. Around the Georgian Bay Islands National Park there are many sheltered inlets that are readily accessible by small boats.

Trent-Severn Waterway

The Trent-Severn Waterway meanders 386 peaceful km (240 miles) from Trenton, on Lake Ontario, to Port Severn, on Georgian Bay. It sports 36 conventional locks on the main channel, one on a side channel, two hydraulic lift locks (the one at Peterborough is the highest hydraulic lift lock in the world), a marine railway, excellent fishing and breathtaking scenery. You'll glide past friendly little towns and emerge near Beausoleil Island, the largest of the Georgian Bay Islands National Park group. "Beausoleil" means "beautiful sunshine".

The Trent-Severn Waterway, between Lock #1, Trenton and Lock #19, Scotts Mills (Peterborough) has a water depth over the lock gate sills of 2.44 m (8') and a water depth of 1.93 m (6') between Peterborough and Lock #45 at Port Severn. Any vessel with a draught of 1.52 m (5') or more considering navigating the waterway must contact the Trent-Severn Waterway office listed below.

The Small Craft Guide, Trent-Severn Waterway gives a description of each lock, its services and facilities and surrounding area facilities. It is available for a fee from marinas along the waterway, chart dealers and the office listed below. For information concerning fees, hours of operation and current chart price lists, contact:

The Great Lakes

The Great Lakes constitute a waterway that extends nearly halfway across the North American continent. Bordered by Ontario on the north and the United States on the south (with the exception of Lake Michigan, which is entirely in the United States), they form the largest body of fresh water in the world - 247,000 km² (95,000 square miles).

From west to east, Lake Superior, Lake Michigan, Lake Huron, Lake Erie and Lake Ontario descend from 182.9 m (600 feet) to 74 m (242.8 feet) above sea level. In order to facilitate navigation on the lakes, several canals and the St. Lawrence Seaway were constructed to make all the lake ports, in effect, Atlantic seaports.

In addition to the major ports along the Great Lakes, there are many small harbours providing good facilities for the pleasure boater.

Lake of the Woods

The shoreline of Lake of the Woods twists and turns for a total of 104,000 km (65,000 miles) and is dotted with 14,000 islands. This beautiful region is a mecca for the boating enthusiast, whether you come trailered and ready to launch or rent a boat (either a houseboat for several days or a powerboat for an early-morning fishing trip) when you arrive. Launching ramps, cranes and assigned dockage are all available.

You can see some of the continent's best boating at the International Sailing Regatta held in August, with over a hundred competitors from the United States and Canada joining in a seven-day 280 km (175 mile) navigational exercise.

Lower Ottawa River

Many hundred years ago, the Lower Ottawa River was heavily used by settlers and native people, thus the name of Voyageur Trail given to the road skirting the river. The corridor is the perfect link for boaters interested in travelling the Golden Triangle from Kingston to Ottawa to the Ontario-Quebec border and back to Kingston.
